Route

Akashi Kaikyo Bridge

In April 1998, the Akashi Kaikyo Bridge was opened for traffic, linking Kobe and Awaji Island. It is the world's longest suspension bridge. Enjoy the glittering sea during daytime and, at night, a spectacular illumination show of lights as the bridge is adorned by colored lights.

Kobe Airport

In Feb 2006, the Kobe Airport started operation. Just 3 km off the shore of Port Island, it has a size of 272ha and a runway 2500m long. On board, you can see the takeoff and landing of airplanes and, at night, the light-up of leading lights.
